Introduction to IT Management

Sooner or later most of us will be faced with a role of being responsible for the productive outcome of others. While there's no silver bullet when it comes to IT management, it is an often challenging yet well-worn path with techniques for acting judiciously along with interpersonal skills that can be developed to influence people and climate.

Please join us at the AITP January dinner meeting for the Introduction to IT Management Panel, a moderated interactive panel on IT management topics and issues. Hear what our five experts have to say, ask your questions, and share your experiences. You'll also have the opportunity to meet and talk with the panelists and colleagues during dinner and at our "meet and greet" networking session held before dinner. Our panelists include:

- Roberta Gamza, Career Strategist and Resume Writer—currently owner of Career Ink
- John Price, Data Center Operations Executive—currently Vice President IT Operations at Integrated Asset Services
- Jeff Knight, Experienced as a CIO —currently at Great-West Life and Annuity
- Moderator: Steve Wille, Author and speaker on leadership and management—Senior Applications Manager at Great-West Life
- Nancy Whitsel, management consultant—Owner of Performance Resources Consulting

No matter how sophisticated the technology, it still takes people!™
